Preface

Red River Co-op is a locally operated co-operative owned by its member-owners. The share you purchase when you join Red River Co-op makes you a member and an owner, and provides you with all the value and benefits of membership in this highly successful co-operative.

As a member-owner, you can participate in the “one member, one vote” democratic process that is unique to co-operatives. This means you have the ability to nominate eligible member-owners as a candidate for the Board, vote in Director Elections and actively participate in meetings of member-owners.

This Handbook is comprised of four (4) parts.

Part I provides basic information about Red River Co-op and the Director Election process.

Part II details the nomination process, election guidelines and candidacy skills and requirements.

Part III contains Red River Co-op’s Code of Business Conduct which all Directors must adhere to.

Part IV details the forms that must be completed by a member-owner who desires to be a candidate in the Director Elections.

Co-operative Principles

As a co-operative, we are a different kind of business. Red River Co-op has a role to play within the community, and operates differently than our competitors.

DEFINITION

A co-operative is an autonomous association of persons united voluntarily to meet their common economic, social, and cultural needs and aspirations through a jointly-owned and democratically-controlled enterprise.

VALUES

Co-operatives are based on the values of self-help, self-responsibility, democracy, equality, equity and solidarity. In the tradition of their founders, co-operative members believe in the ethical values of honesty, openness, social responsibility and caring for others.

The Co-operative principles are guidelines by which co-operatives put their values into practice:

1. Voluntary and Open Membership

Co-operatives are voluntary organizations, open to all persons able to use their services and willing to accept the responsibilities of membership, without gender, social, racial, political or religious discrimination.

2. Democratic Member Control

Co-operatives are democratic organizations controlled by their members, who actively participate in setting their policies and making decisions. Men and women serving as elected representatives are accountable to the membership. In primary co-operatives, members have equal voting rights (one member, one vote) and co-operatives at other levels are also organized in a democratic manner.

3. Member Economic Participation

Members contribute equally to, and democratically control, the capital of their co-operative. At least part of that capital is usually the common property of the co-operative. Members usually receive limited compensation, if any, on capital subscribed as a condition of membership. Members allocate surpluses for any or all of the following purposes: developing their co-operative, possibly by setting up reserves, part of which at least would be indivisible; benefiting members in proportion to their transactions with the co-operative; and supporting other activities approved by the membership.

4. Autonomy and Independence

Co-operatives are autonomous, self-help organizations controlled by their members. If they enter into agreements with other organizations, including governments, or raise capital from external sources, they do so on terms that ensure democratic control by their members and maintain their co-operative autonomy.

5. Education, Training and Information

Co-operatives provide education and training for their members, elected representatives, managers, and employees so they can contribute effectively to the development of their co-operatives. They inform the general public – particularly young people and opinion leaders – about the nature and benefits of co-operation.

6. Co-operation Among Co-operatives

Co-operatives serve their members most effectively and strengthen the co-operative movement by working together through local, national, regional and international structures.

7. Concern for Community

Co-operatives work for the sustainable development of their communities through policies approved by their members.

We recognize that this consumer-owned co-operative has a responsibility to respect, to promote, and to protect the rights of the consumers, and that these rights include: the right to safety, the right to be informed, the right to choose, and the right to be heard.

Code of Ethical Standards

In support of its responsibility to appreciate the rights of consumers, this co-operative shall aim to observe and apply in all of its activities, the following:

Ethical Standards

- All claims, statements, information, advice and proposals shall be honest and factual.
- Sufficient disclosure of pertinent facts and information shall be made to enable others to adequately judge the offered product, service, or proposal, and its suitability for the purpose to be served.
- Due regard shall be given to public decency and good taste.
- Unfair exploitation in any form shall be avoided.
- Comparison of co-operative merchandising, products, services, philosophy, principles, or practices, to those of others shall only be made honestly and fairly, and without intent to harmfully disparage.
- The interests of the membership as a whole shall be paramount to the interests of the institution.
- The co-operative shall aim to be equitable in the treatment of its members.
- Knowingly advising or persuading individuals to take action that may not be in their best interests shall be avoided.

Application of the Code

Having acknowledged that the consumer has certain rights, and being resolved to conduct our activities in the interests of the consumer, we shall, at all times, when applying this code or interpreting its intent, emphasize ethical human relations and values rather than technicalities or legalisms.

Our test for compliance with this Ethical Code of Standards shall be the effect of communication or action on the ordinary or trusting mind. We recognize that it is not sufficient that a discerning, knowledgeable, or analytical person may derive a correct interpretation if others may be misled.

The Code of Ethical Standards is adopted by the Board of Directors of Red River Cooperative Ltd.

The Board of Directors

The Board oversees the management of Red River Co-op's business and affairs, subject to the Cooperatives Act, regulations, articles, and the Co-operative's bylaws. Directors must be independent and possess a wide range of experience and skills.

The Red River Co-op Board is comprised of seven Directors. Two or three are elected each year, although this can vary depending on vacancies. There are three officers on the Board: President (Chair), Vice-President (Vice-Chair), and Secretary. Board appointment of officers, committees and representatives takes place each year after the Annual General Meeting. The Board is based on a democratic structure and is committed to ensuring good corporate governance within the association. All decisions of the Board must be made in the interests of the entire membership.

Corporate Governance Guidelines

1. The Board assumes responsibility for stewardship of the co-operative, and specifically for:
 - a. Adoption of a strategic planning process that includes senior management;
 - b. Identifying principal risks in the Co-op by working with the Board and Management and ensuring a process to manage such risks is in place;
 - c. Succession planning, including oversight of all positions reporting to the Chief Executive Officer;
 - d. Ensuring the Co-op has a communications policy; and
 - e. Approving a mandate for an Audit Committee of Directors. The Audit Committee will have direct communication channels with the designated internal staff and the external auditor of reviewing Management's internal controls and information systems.
2. The Board should consist of independent individuals who are elected by the members and able to act in the best interest of the co-operative and its members.
3. The Board assumes responsibility for ensuring members have a slate of candidates in place for Director elections, and the appointment of a Nomination Committee to recommend processes and details.
4. The Board develops a process for assessing the effectiveness of the Board itself, the Directors, and the committees of the Board.
5. The Board assumes responsibility for new Director orientation programs.
6. The Board sets corporate and Board objectives and assigns responsibility.
7. The Board reviews and approves the Chief Executive Officer's business plan and objectives annually.
8. The Board has structures and procedures for ensuring that the Board can function independently of Management.
9. The Board should examine its size in relation to effective decision-making and make any adjustment, if appropriate, to the annual meeting of members.
10. The Board appoints a Governance and Compensation committee or assumes direct responsibility to manage governance and compensation issues in consultation with the Committee and to report to the membership on detailed progress.
11. The Board will ensure a plan is in place for Director training programs.

12. The Board establishes committees as necessary by identifying such committees, the terms of reference and a chairperson.
13. The Board reviews the adequacy of Director compensation in light of the risks and responsibilities involved in being an effective Director, and makes a recommendation to the annual meeting of members.
14. The Board approves a Code of Business Conduct and Ethics.

Board Compensation

Remuneration in the form of per diems for meeting attendance, as well as a monthly retainer, is paid to all Directors in accordance with the bylaws of Red River Co-op. Directors are also reimbursed for mileage and out-of-pocket expenses incurred while conducting business on behalf of the Co-op.

2. Promote transparency and ensure consistency in the process followed to determine whether a candidate should be endorsed.

Policy Statements

1. Red River Co-op believes in the value of endorsement as a governance practice which supports Board effectiveness, Board relevancy and Board renewal;
2. Red River Co-op believes that governance practices such as endorsement provide members with assurance that a candidate's values, interests, experience and qualifications are those that would enhance the Board's current composition;
3. Red River Co-op believes that a Board elected democratically is consistent with its values and will ensure that its election processes, including endorsement are fair, transparent and aligned with the democratic process;
4. Red River Co-op welcomes and values applications to become a Board member from all members who meet the minimum qualifying criteria for Board candidates as set out in its bylaws, and the skills and competencies published to the membership annually; reflect the need to provide good governance and ensure Board members have the required governance skills, as well as complementary perspectives;

6. Red River Co-op strives to ensure that the Board as a whole possesses the skills and experience relevant to the co-op's needs, which evolve to accommodate changes to Red River Co-op's operating environment, risk appetite and/or external opportunities or challenges; and
7. Red River Co-op is committed to demonstrating transparency and accountability to all stakeholders and as such this Policy will be published for all to access on the Red River Co-op website.

Guidelines

1. Annually, the Governance and Compensation Committee will review and assess the Board composition based on a Board Skills and Experience Matrix and determine where there are any potential gaps in skills and experience. Additionally, in reviewing the Board's composition, the committee will consider diversity, with the goal of maintaining an appropriate mix and balance of diversity of representation.
2. The outcomes of this review are used to provide guidance to the Nominations Committee and forms the proposed recruitment criteria that are published to the membership as part of the call for nominations for candidates for the annual Board elections.
3. To avoid possible conflict of interest, the Nominations Committee is made up of Board members whose terms do not expire in the current election year. The Nominations Committee's mandate is to identify qualified candidates for election, and to oversee a fair and transparent elections process.
4. The Nominations Committee will ensure a reputable third-party Candidate Assessment Consultant is in place.
5. Incumbent directors will also be required to participate in the interview process in order to be considered as a Red River Co-op's endorsed candidate.
6. All candidates (whether or not they have been endorsed) will have equal opportunity to represent their candidacy to members.
7. The third-party Candidate Assessment Consultant is responsible for conducting a structured interview with all candidates to gather consistent data and to objectively assess (using a scoring matrix) how candidates meet, or do not meet, the published recruitment criteria. The Board will accept the recommendations from the third-party Candidate Assessment Consultant on which candidates will be endorsed.
8. As part of the endorsement process and assessment of whether a candidate is qualified under the Bylaws and Cooperatives Act, a comprehensive background check will be conducted once the candidate has provided their consent. Candidates whose background check indicates that they are disqualified, based on the results of the Criminal Record Check, Credit Inquiry, or other checks, will not be interviewed.
9. In conducting interviews of proposed candidates, the third-party Candidate Assessment Consultant shall generally use the same or similar questions for each proposed candidate in order to elicit responses to the same areas of review. However, supplementary and probing questions may be asked in order to clarify the experience, skills, qualifications, attributes and behaviours of the candidates.
10. After interviewing each candidate, the third-party Candidate Assessment Consultant interviewers collectively discuss their assessment of the candidate. Based on the committee's overall assessment of director candidates and requirements of Bylaws, they will identify and disclose to candidates that, in the committee's view, would best fill the available seats and strengthen the Board (the "endorsed" candidates).

11. During the interview process, information may be gleaned that would cause an application to be invalid and therefore determined not acceptable. The Committee may need to seek counsel on such matters and, if the application is deemed invalid, the applicant will be advised by the Nominations Committee, through its Chair, in writing by e-mail.
12. Prior to the ballot being printed, the Elections Officer will connect with all eligible Board candidates, confirm that they have been placed into candidacy and advise whether they have, or have not, been endorsed. At that time, all eligible director candidates are given the opportunity to confirm, or withdraw, their candidacy.
13. The co-op's decisions regarding candidate eligibility under the Bylaws and Cooperatives Act and candidate endorsement are final.

Monitoring and Reporting

The Nominations Committee will review the Candidate Endorsement Policy and its effectiveness annually and recommend any necessary revisions to the Board for approval.

The Nominations Committee will provide a report to the membership on the Director Elections at the Annual General Meeting.

Campaign Policy

Once a candidate is accepted, they may wish to tell others about their candidacy and ask for their vote. To assist candidates with this, Red River Co-op has developed a set of principles and guidelines to ensure campaigning is conducted fairly and equally by all candidates.

As a general statement, please note that campaigning for a Board seat is not the same as running for political office. There are no rallies, no attack ads, no individual advertising including posters, print or paid advertising, no telephone soliciting, and no lawn signs. It is a genteel process conducted individually and professionally. Red River Co-op wants to help each candidate to ensure all candidates are known to member-owners when it is time to vote.

Please note that Red River Cooperative Ltd. has a Board policy (50.7) stating that, "The individual nominees for the Board of Director positions are not allowed to solicit or campaign in any form at any Red River Co-op location."

Non-adherence to Campaign Policy

A candidate may be disqualified from the election by a vote of Directors not seeking re-election, if the candidate breaches or violates the campaigning policy or guidelines identified.

Campaign Guidelines

How Red River Co-op will assist campaigns:

- Red River Co-op will disclose which candidates are being endorsed to member-owners. Red River Co-op will include portions of the information in the Request for Nomination form and the photograph on the Red River Co-op website, and in a brochure accompanying the voting ballot mailed to member-owners to promote candidates. This will help Members in deciding on who to vote for in the election. Information that is not part of the Nomination Package will not be included in the election materials.
- Red River Co-op will assign candidates a temporary Red River Co-op e-mail address to be published with campaign materials.
- Red River Co-op will post election notices in Red River Co-op food stores, gas bars, and on employee notice boards directing them to the website to review all candidates' platforms, temporary Red River Co-op e-mail addresses and photographs.
- Red River Co-op will monitor candidates' campaign activities and will advise candidates of any concerns or suggestions.

Conducting a Campaign

Directors elected to Red River Co-op's Board are expected to act with maturity, tact and wisdom on behalf of member-owners. This applies to campaigning as well. The following guidelines have been developed to ensure campaigns are conducted appropriately:

- Campaign with maturity and decorum;
 - Only election materials endorsed or printed by Red River Co-op may be used by a candidate for promoting their candidacy in any forum.
- Campaign as an individual;
- Share with Red River Co-op;
 - If a candidate campaigns using a blog, website or social media account, including but not limited to LinkedIn, X (Twitter), Instagram, Facebook, TikTok, please submit the link to the Elections Officer at electionsofficer@rrcoop.com so Red River Co-op can monitor.
- Speak for yourself;
 - If a candidate wants to share specific ideas about Red River Co-op's future, they must make it clear that these are their ideas alone and they have not been endorsed by Red River Co-op, its Board or Management.
- Be positive;
 - Candidates should speak positively about why they would be a good Director and how their competencies, skills and experience can enhance the Board's role in overseeing Red River Co-op on the members' behalf.

RED RIVER COOPERATIVE LTD.

- Negative campaigning/comments about Red River Co-op, other candidates, Management, Employees, or the Board are not appropriate.
- Avoid conducting campaign related activities on Red River Co-op premises and/or with employees;
 - Campaigning on Red River Co-op premises is not allowed, including food stores, pharmacies, gas bars, parking lots and offices.
 - Red River Co-op employees cannot be approached to assist with any campaign; this includes developing materials, writing candidate statements, taking photographs or campaigning.

The campaigning period runs from February 21 to April 14, 2025.

Election Results

The ballots cast by member-owners electronically or by mail will be tabulated once the voting period ends. The Returning Officer appointed by the Board of Directors will announce the election results with member-owners at our Annual General Meeting of Members on April 24, 2025, at the Victoria Inn in Winnipeg. All candidates are encouraged to attend the Annual General Meeting. Election results will be posted on our website by April 30, 2025.

Director Candidate Information Handbook - Part III

Code of Business Conduct

Every Director of Red River Cooperative Limited (“Red River Co-op”) occupies a position of trust. Such individuals represent Red River Co-op in their relations with others – whether with customers, suppliers, employees, members, competitors, governments, or the general public. Such persons are expected to act in a manner that will enhance Red River Co-op’s reputation for honesty, integrity and the faithful performance of undertakings and obligations.

Every Director of Red River Co-op has the responsibility to obey the law and act ethically. To that end, this Code of Business Conduct (“Code”) is a guide that is intended to sensitize such individuals to significant legal and ethical issues that arise frequently and to the mechanisms available to report illegal or unethical conduct. It is not, however, a comprehensive document that addresses every legal or ethical issue that a director may confront, nor is it a summary of all laws and policies that may apply. Ultimately, no code of business conduct can replace the thoughtful behavior of an ethical person.

If you have any questions about this Code, or are unclear about a particular course of action, you should consult with the Board Chair or the Chief Executive Officer. You can also call the Ethics Hotline at 1-866-529-9589; text to 587-435-9589; or e-mail ethics.alert@mnp.ca to report your concerns in complete confidence.

Scope

The Board of Directors and the Executive Management of Red River Co-op has established this Code. It applies to every Director of Red River Co-op.

The provisions of this Code, as set forth in Sections I to XIII, are mandatory and full compliance is expected under all circumstances. This Code affirms the commitment of Red River Co-op to uphold high ethical standards and to specify the basic norms of behavior for all Directors.

Failure to comply with this Code can have severe consequences. Conduct that violates this Code may violate federal, provincial or municipal law and can subject Red River Co-op and its Directors to prosecution and legal sanctions. Offenders will be appropriately disciplined, which may include discharge from office, for violations of this Code.

I. Compliance with the Law

Red River Co-op and all Directors shall comply with all lawful requirements, both domestically and foreign, applicable to the business of Red River Co-op.

Wherever there is doubt about the application or interpretation of any legal requirement, the Director should seek the advice of the Board Chair or the Chief Executive Officer. Ignorance of the law is not, in general, a defense should such laws be contravened.

Accordingly, every Director must diligently ensure that they are aware of, and that their conduct cannot be interpreted as being in contravention of, laws governing the affairs of Red River Co-op in the jurisdictions where Red River Co-op carries on business.

II. Gifts and Entertainment

Directors shall not furnish, directly or indirectly, on behalf of Red River Co-op, expensive gifts or provide excessive entertainment or benefits to other persons.

Those individuals whose duties permit them to do so may furnish modest gifts, favors and entertainment to persons, other than public officials, if all the following tests are met:

1. They are not in cash or other negotiable instruments;
2. They cannot reasonably be interpreted as an improper payment or inducement and are of modest value;
3. They are made as a matter of general and accepted business practice;
4. They do not contravene any law and in addition are made in accordance with generally accepted local business practices; and
5. If subsequently disclosed to the public, their provision would not in any way embarrass Red River Co-op or the recipients.

For example, reasonable expenses for the entertainment of suppliers, prospective employees or business associates are permissible on the part of those individuals whose duties involve the provision of such entertainment, provided proper accounting is made in accordance with the applicable policies of Red River Co-op and such form of business development does not, to the knowledge of the individual, contravene the policies of the recipient's employer.

III. Personal Gain

Directors shall not use their position with Red River Co-op to obtain personal gain from those doing or seeking to do business with Red River Co-op.

Except as hereinafter provided, Directors should neither seek nor accept gifts, payments, services, fees, special privileges, vacations, accommodations or loans from any person (except, in the case of loans, from persons in the business of lending and then only on conventional terms) or from any organization or group that does or is seeking to do business with Red River Co-op, or from a competitor of Red River Co-op. However, Directors may accept modest gifts, favours or entertainment provided that in so doing, standards consistent with the tests relating to the furnishing of gifts as set out in Section II are met and do not violate the applicable policies of Red River Co-op.

IV. Dealings with Public Officials

All dealings between Directors of Red River Co-op and public officials are to be conducted in a manner that will not compromise the integrity or impugn the reputation of any public official or Red River Co-op.

Even the appearance of impropriety in dealing with public officials is improper and unacceptable. Any participation, whether directly or indirectly, in any improper profit-sharing arrangement, illegal gratuities, indirect contributions, improper inducements or similar payments is not permitted, notwithstanding that they might further the business interests of Red River Co-op. Maintenance of a high standard of integrity is of the utmost importance to Red River Co-op.

Since the furnishing of even inexpensive gifts or modest entertainment or benefits to a public official may be open to the interpretation that it was furnished illegally to secure their influence as a public official, no such gift, entertainment or benefit may be furnished by a Director of Red River Co-op unless they comply with the following conditions:

1. A Director may from time to time and in appropriate circumstances furnish inexpensive gifts or modest entertainment or benefits to a public official in accordance with the applicable policies of Red River Co-op; and
2. An expense account disclosing the expenditure is submitted for approval to the individual from whom authorization was first obtained (where applicable).

V. Political Contributions

The use of any funds, goods or services of Red River Co-op as contributions to political parties, candidates or communications is not permitted.

Contributions include money or anything having value, such as loans, services, excessive entertainment, trips and the use of facilities or assets of Red River Co-op. Further, no Director is to be reimbursed for any contributions that they might make.

Red River Co-op encourages political activity and political involvement by individuals acting on their own behalf, but not as representatives of Red River Co-op.

VI. Conflict of Interest

Directors must avoid all situations in which their personal interest's conflict with or might conflict with their duties to Red River Co-op.

Individuals should seek to avoid acquiring any interests or participating in any activities that tend to:

1. Deprive Red River Co-op of the time or attention required to perform their duties properly, or
2. Create an obligation or distraction that would affect their judgment or ability to act in the best interest of Red River Co-op.

In certain instances, ownership or other participation in a competing or complimentary business enterprise, or employment with or association with another organization, might create or appear to create such a conflict.

RED RIVER COOPERATIVE LTD.

Directors are required to disclose in writing to Red River Co-op all business, commercial or financial interests, or activities that might reasonably be regarded as creating an actual or potential conflict with their duties.

Directors are prohibited from: a) taking for themselves personally, opportunities that properly belong to Red River Co-op; b) using Red River Co-op property, information or position for personal gain, or to advance the gain of another organization; and c) competing with Red River Co-op. All such individuals owe a duty to advance the legitimate interests of Red River Co-op when the opportunity to do so arises.

The law provides that if personal financial benefit is improperly gained by a director directly, or indirectly through a spouse, child or relative sharing the same residence as the individual, as a result of their position or by the use or misuse of property of Red River Co-op or of information that is confidential to the business of Red River Co-op, then the individual must account to Red River Co-op for any benefit received. Directors must do more than merely act within the law. They must act in such a manner that their conduct will bear the closest scrutiny should circumstances demand that it be examined. Not only actual conflicts of interest but also the very appearance of conflict should be avoided.

VII. Disclosure of Confidential Information

Unless previously published in the public domain, records, reports, papers, devices, processes, plans, methods, trade secrets, inventions and apparatus of Red River Co-op or to which any Director of Red River Co-op has been permitted access are considered by Red River Co-op, or the party who has permitted access thereto, to be secret and confidential, and such individuals are prohibited from revealing, reproducing, processing or using information concerning such matters without proper authorization.

Red River Co-op participates in highly competitive industries where new technology, processes and services, and state-of-the-art advances are required on an ongoing basis. This provides an opportunity for Red River Co-op to survive and prosper in these competitive environments and provides jobs and security for its employees. This requires a constant effort to ensure that trade secrets, research and development, and business techniques are protected and secure.

It is important that all individuals know and understand the responsibilities that they have to preserve confidentiality so that Red River Co-op can continue to operate and protect its business interests. As a result, Directors and employees will not disclose information to the public which might impair Red River Co-op's competitive effectiveness or which might violate the private rights of individuals, enterprises or institutions and are prohibited from discussing or disclosing to the public any secret or confidential information about Red River Co-op without authorization. Disclosure of confidential information may be authorized for legitimate purposes such as full and complete reporting to regulatory agencies, the performance of duties to Red River Co-op or the provision of information to customers, employees, members and the public as may be necessary to allow them to judge adequately Red River Co-op and its activities.

The policy of Red River Co-op is to cooperate with every reasonable request of government investigators for information. At the same time, Red River Co-op is entitled to all the safeguards provided by law for the benefit of persons under investigation or accused of wrongdoing, including legal representation. If a representative of any government or government agency seeks an interview with you or requests access to data or documents for the purposes of an investigation, you should refer the representative to the Chief Executive Officer.

VIII. Recording of Transactions and Disclosure of Funds and Assets

Directors must protect the assets of Red River Co-op and ensure their efficient use. Such assets include, without limitation, intellectual property such as corporate or business names, logos, trademarks, patents, copyrights, confidential information, ideas, plans and strategies. Theft, fraud, carelessness and waste have a direct impact on profitability and are unacceptable. All assets of Red River Co-op should be used only for legitimate business purposes. Any misuse or infringement of assets of Red River Co-op should be reported to the Chief Executive Officer.

The books and records of Red River Co-op must fully and fairly disclose, in an accurate, timely and understandable manner, all transactions and dispositions of the assets of Red River Co-op.

All funds and assets are to be recorded and disclosed. The use of the funds or assets of Red River Co-op for any unlawful or improper purpose (including for unauthorized personal gain) is strictly prohibited, and those responsible for accounting and record-keeping functions are expected to be vigilant in ensuring enforcement of this prohibition.

IX. Competition and Trade Practice Standards

Red River Co-op competes vigorously and creatively in our business activities, but our efforts in the marketplace shall be conducted in a fair and ethical manner in strict compliance with applicable competition and trade practice laws and regulations.

Under no circumstances shall any Director be a party to any collusion or concerted effort of any type involving any competitor, vendor, supplier, customer or other party, which is in violation of competition laws and regulations designed to foster fair competition.

Because competition laws are complex, questions about compliance should be referred to the Chief Executive Officer.

X. Computing Technology

Red River Co-op may provide computer hardware, software, Internet, email and external data communications to its directors. The use of computers and telecommunications technology has become a prevalent and standard business practice, and all Directors must exercise the same discretion as when using other business tools such as office telephones and facilities. Users are expected to efficiently and securely utilize these tools for business purposes, while protecting corporate data and information and exercising appropriate business conduct at all times.

Red River Co-op computing technology is for business purposes, and personal use is not allowed. Users will not create or transmit any unsolicited commercial, advertising or recreational material, or use any system resources for political activities or to advance the commercial interests of any party other than Red River Co-op.

Users will not create, access or transmit any material, data, text, audio, images, or material that is capable of being converted, which is offensive, obscene, indecent, libelous, slanderous, harassing, annoying or defamatory. Users are expected to discourage others from transmitting such information to their Internet address. Users must comply with all laws including those with respect to all forms of intellectual property rights, trademarks, copyrights, criminal activity and harassment.

Non-compliance with the policies will be referred to the Board Chair.

XI. Improper Influence on Conduct of Audits

No Director shall fraudulently influence, coerce, manipulate or mislead any internal auditor or independent public or certified accountant engaged in the performance of an audit of the financial statements for the purpose of rendering such financial statements materially misleading.

The honesty and integrity of those who represent Red River Co-op must underlie all of Red River Co-op's relationships, including those with members, customers, suppliers, governments, regulators, professional service providers and others. The integrity of Red River Co-op's financial reporting is of particular importance as Red River Co-op members rely on Red River Co-op to provide complete, accurate and timely information. The dissemination of financial statements that contain materially misleading information can have serious legal consequences for Red River Co-op and individuals involved.

XII. Duty to Report

Every Director has a duty to adhere to this Code and all applicable policies and to immediately report to the Board Chair any suspected violations. If individuals wish to remain anonymous, they may call the Red River Co-op Ethics Hotline at 1-866-529-9589; text to 587-435-9589; or e-mail ethics.alert@mnp.ca.

The Ethics Hotline is designed to supplement, not replace, existing reporting channels. An independent third-party staff the Ethics Hotline to protect the anonymity of any caller.

It is the responsibility of all individuals to promptly report any misconduct, including any violation of law, the Code, other Red River Co-op policies, or other improper activities at Red River Co-op.

Anyone may report questionable accounting or auditing matters on an anonymous basis by addressing a written submission to the Chair of the Audit Committee of Red River Co-op.

Every Director will be provided with a copy of this Code. To ensure a proper understanding of the Code, the Board Chair or a third-party advisor will answer any questions pertaining to its application to the area of responsibility of the Director.

At commencement of term of office and annually thereafter, each Director shall complete the prescribed acknowledgement, which will be retained by Red River Co-op and which shall confirm that each such individual has read or reread, as the case may be, the current version of this Code.

Although the various matters dealt with in this Code do not cover the full spectrum of activities associated with Red River Co-op's business, they are indicative of Red River Co-op's commitment to the maintenance of high standards of conduct and are to be considered descriptive of the type of behaviour expected from Directors in all circumstances.
